About RNSIT

RNS Institute of Technology, popularly known as RNSIT, was established in the year 2001. It is the brainchild of Dr. R. N. Shetty, a well-known industrialist and a great philanthropist. The institution was established with the sole purpose of imparting quality education in Engineering, Technology, and Management. As one of the premier engineering colleges in the state, RNSIT is marching towards placing itself on the global map by excelling in academics and placements.

Located in South Bengaluru with a lush green campus and state-of-the-art infrastructure, the college boasts well-equipped laboratories, hundreds of activities, and numerous new initiatives. With consistent VTU ranks, commendable placements, a plethora of events, RNSIT has become a dream destination for engineering aspirants across the country.

About RNSIT MUN Society

The RNSIT Model United Nations Society (RNSIT MUNSoc) was established in 2023 with the vision of creating a platform for students to engage with global affairs, meaningful debate, diplomacy, and public speaking. What began as a small initiative has since grown into a vibrant student community bringing together individuals from diverse departments and academic years.

Today, the Society comprises over 30 club members, supported by hundreds of enthusiasts participating in events. With a strong emphasis on inclusivity, RNSIT MUNSoc welcomes students irrespective of their prior experience with Model United Nations and encourages every member to learn, participate, and develop the confidence to articulate their perspectives.

Since its inception, the Society has created opportunities for students to learn through experience. Through conferences, introductory sessions, training programmes, workshops, discussions, and quizzes, members are encouraged to explore diplomacy, geopolitics, international affairs, research, negotiation, and structured debate.

In 2024, the club organised its inaugural event, Nexus, followed by a two-day introductory MUN conference. These initiatives provided students with an opportunity to experience committee proceedings and gain a practical understanding of research, debate, diplomacy, and resolution-building. Nexus IntraMUN has successfully completed three editions with the latest one held in May 2026.

The Society also expanded beyond the conventional MUN format through Atlas 2024 & 2025, an Intercollegiate World Affairs Quiz. The event witnessed participation from 170 students across more than 15 colleges in both editions, reflecting the Society's growing engagement with contemporary affairs and its efforts to create platforms for students to learn beyond the committee room.

In 2025, RNSIT MUNSoc continued its journey with further editions of its initiatives, training programmes, discussions, and student activities. Alongside diplomacy and debate, the Society has also encouraged community engagement, environmental initiatives, cycling activities, nature experiences, and other collaborative programmes that strengthen the sense of community among its members.

For the club, Model United Nations is not only a simulation. It is an opportunity to understand the complexities of global affairs, engage with diverse perspectives, challenge assumptions, negotiate ideas, and develop the ability to communicate with clarity and conviction. The Society believes that meaningful dialogue requires not only the confidence to speak, but also the willingness to listen.

As it continues to grow, the club continues to expand its initiatives beyond the conventional MUN format. In 2026, Que Quiz Club was established, a new platform aimed at bringing together students through quizzes, curiosity, and a shared interest in exploring knowledge across diverse fields. Through such initiatives, the Society seeks to build a broader and more dynamic student community while continuing to create meaningful opportunities for students to learn, engage, and grow.

LETTER FROM THE SECRETARY—GENERAL

Every conference begins with an idea. However, ideas alone do not create change. It is people who give them purpose, direction, and meaning. People who are willing to ask difficult questions, engage with perspectives different from their own, and recognise that disagreement need not prevent meaningful dialogue. People who can enter a room with differing opinions and still believe that conversation, understanding, and cooperation are worth pursuing.

To me, that is what RNS MUN 2026 represents. This conference is more than two days of committee sessions, speeches, resolutions, and awards. It is a gathering of individuals with different experiences, perspectives, and ideas, who have come together with a willingness to listen, challenge, negotiate, and contribute to something beyond their individual positions.

My own experience with Model United Nations has taught me that it is about much more than representing a country or delivering a well-prepared speech. It is an opportunity to discover one's voice, question one's assumptions, understand perspectives that may initially seem unfamiliar, and recognise that listening is often just as important as speaking.

As Secretary-General, RNS MUN 2026 holds a special significance for me. Having been involved in the journey of bringing this conference to life, I have witnessed the effort that exists behind what delegates will eventually experience over these two days. Every committee, session, and detail is the result of months of planning, discussions, challenges, disagreements, learning, and the collective commitment of people who believed that this conference was worth building.

To every delegate joining us, my hope is that these two days offer you something beyond an award, a certificate, or a resolution. I hope you leave with a new perspective, a conversation that remains with you, a friendship you did not expect, or perhaps the confidence to speak when you might otherwise have remained silent.

I encourage you to approach these two days with openness and curiosity. Speak with conviction, but remain willing to learn. Defend your ideas, but do not become so attached to them that you stop listening. Challenge yourselves to engage with people and perspectives outside your comfort zone, for it is often through such conversations that we understand not only the world around us, but also our own assumptions and beliefs.

Ultimately, this conference will not be defined solely by its committees, its programme, or the resolutions that emerge from its sessions. It will be defined by the people in the room, the ideas they bring forward, the conversations they begin, and the experiences they create together.

I am proud of the journey that has brought us here and deeply grateful to everyone who has been a part of it. More importantly, I look forward to witnessing what each of you will bring to this conference.

Welcome to RNS MUN 2026.

Nikhil Nayak,
Secretary-General : RNS MUN 2026

ABOUT RNS MUN 2026

RNS MUN 2026 marks another significant chapter in the journey of the RNSIT MUN Society. This offline conference, scheduled to be held on 6th and 7th October 2026 marks the First Edition at RNS Institute of Technology, and will bring together students for two days of diplomacy, debate, negotiation, and meaningful dialogue.

The conference features six diverse committees: the United Nations Security Council (UNSC), United Nations Human Rights Council (UNHRC), Disarmament and International Security Committee (DISEC), Lok Sabha, International Press Corps (IPC), and the United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime (UNODC). Together, they offer delegates the opportunity to engage with a broad spectrum of international, national, humanitarian, security, and contemporary issues.

Through carefully curated agendas and engaging committee experiences, RNS MUN 2026 aims to encourage delegates to research deeply, think critically, communicate with clarity, and work collaboratively towards meaningful solutions. The conference seeks to provide an intellectually stimulating experience for both first-time and experienced delegates, while maintaining an environment that values constructive dialogue, diplomacy, and healthy competition.

Beyond the committee room, RNS MUN 2026 is also an opportunity for individuals to connect, exchange perspectives, and become part of a wider community. Built through the collective efforts of the RNSIT MUN Society, its faculty, organising committee, executive board, and Core Secretariat, the conference represents the Society's continued commitment to creating meaningful platforms for students.

Over two days, RNS MUN 2026 invites delegates to question, debate, negotiate, and contribute their perspectives to conversations that truly matter.

UNITED NATIONS
SECURITY COUNCIL

AGENDA

Addressing Parallel Governments and De Facto Authorities in Civil Wars: Sovereignty, Territorial Control and International Recognition

The United Nations Security Council stands at the centre of the international system for maintaining international peace and security. In conflicts where competing authorities, parallel governments and de facto administrations challenge the legitimacy of established states, the Council must navigate the complex intersection of sovereignty, territorial control, international recognition and civilian protection.

At RNSMUN, delegates will confront the realities of civil wars where political legitimacy is contested and authority extends beyond internationally recognised governments. The committee will challenge delegates to examine how the international community should respond to de facto authorities, balance the principle of non-intervention with the need to prevent prolonged conflict, and determine when engagement or recognition can contribute to lasting peace. Through rigorous diplomacy, negotiation and strategic decision-making, RNSMUN seeks to recreate the complexities of the Security Council and place delegates at the heart of a consequential debate on the future of contested states.

UNITED NATIONS
HUMAN RIGHTS COUNCIL

AGENDA

Safeguarding Freedom of Expression and the Safety of Journalists in Conflict and Post-Conflict Zones

The United Nations Human Rights Council serves as a global forum for addressing human rights violations and strengthening the protection of fundamental freedoms. In conflict and post-conflict environments, journalists play a vital role in documenting violations, informing the public, and ensuring accountability, yet they often face censorship, intimidation, arbitrary detention, violence, and other threats.

At RNSMUN, delegates will examine the delicate balance between freedom of expression, national security, and the protection of journalists in some of the world's most volatile environments. The committee will challenge delegates to develop meaningful mechanisms for protecting journalists, combating impunity, and ensuring access to reliable information while respecting legitimate security concerns. Through principled negotiation and evidence-based diplomacy, RNSMUN aims to foster a substantive discussion on safeguarding press freedom and strengthening accountability in conflict and post-conflict settings.

DISARMAMENT AND INTERNATIONAL SECURITY COMMITTEE

AGENDA

Regulating the Militarisation of Outer Space and the Development of Anti-Satellite (ASAT) Weapons

The Disarmament and International Security Committee addresses emerging threats to international peace and security, with a particular focus on arms control, disarmament, and the responsible use of advanced technologies. As outer space becomes increasingly critical to communication, navigation, defence, and global infrastructure, its growing militarisation presents complex challenges for international stability.

At RNSMUN, delegates will confront the evolving security implications of military activity in outer space and the development of Anti-Satellite (ASAT) weapons. The committee will challenge delegates to balance national security interests with the need to prevent an arms race in space, address the risks posed by space debris and attacks on critical satellite infrastructure, and explore effective international frameworks for responsible conduct. Through strategic negotiation and multilateral diplomacy, RNSMUN aims to place delegates at the forefront of shaping a more secure and sustainable future for outer space.

COMMITTEE AWARD STRUCTURE:

Best Delegate (1st Place):	₹8,000
High Commendation (2nd Place):	₹5,000
Special Mention (3rd Place):	₹3,000

LOK SABHA

AGENDA

Post–Census Delimitation and Fiscal Redistribution: Addressing Regional Representation and Inter–State Fiscal Equity

The Lok Sabha, the House of the People, is the principal legislative chamber of the Parliament of India, responsible for representing the aspirations of citizens and shaping legislation on matters of national importance. Few issues bring questions of representation, federalism, and regional equity into sharper focus than the delimitation of parliamentary constituencies and the distribution of fiscal resources between the Union and the States.

At RNSMUN, delegates will engage with the political and constitutional complexities surrounding post-census delimitation and inter-state fiscal redistribution. The debate will challenge delegates to reconcile the principle of equal representation with the concerns of states that have pursued differing demographic and developmental trajectories, while examining the wider implications for India's federal structure. Through parliamentary debate, negotiation, and coalition-building, RNSMUN seeks to recreate the intensity of the Lok Sabha and encourage delegates to develop pragmatic approaches to one of India's most consequential questions of representation and fiscal equity.

COMMITTEE AWARD STRUCTURE:

Best Delegate (1st Place):	₹8,000
High Commendation (2nd Place):	₹5,000
Special Mention (3rd Place):	₹3,000

UNITED NATIONS OFFICE
ON DRUGS AND CRIME

AGENDA

Combating Technology–Facilitated Human Trafficking, Online Child Exploitation, and Illicit Financial Flows

The United Nations Office on Drugs and Crime works at the forefront of the international fight against organised crime, trafficking, corruption, and illicit financial activity. As criminal networks increasingly exploit digital platforms and emerging technologies, traditional approaches to law enforcement and international cooperation face new and rapidly evolving challenges.

At RNSMUN, delegates will examine the intersection of technology, organised crime, human trafficking, online child exploitation, and illicit financial flows. The committee will challenge delegates to address how criminals exploit digital infrastructure while balancing effective enforcement with privacy, cybersecurity, and human rights. Through international cooperation, policy formulation, and practical negotiation, RNSMUN aims to explore how states can strengthen cross-border mechanisms, disrupt criminal networks, and protect vulnerable communities in an increasingly digital world.

COMMITTEE AWARD STRUCTURE:

Best Delegate (1st Place):	₹8,000
High Commendation (2nd Place):	₹5,000
Special Mention (3rd Place):	₹3,000

IPC

INTERNATIONAL PRESS
CORPS

AGENDA

Unfiltered Investigative Journalism, Real-Time Crisis Coverage, Press Conferences, and Daily Report Publications

The International Press Corps serves as the eyes and ears of the conference, documenting the proceedings, scrutinising debates, and bringing the deliberations of committees to a wider audience. Through written journalism and photojournalism, the press captures not only the decisions being made but also the arguments, negotiations, and moments that shape the conference.

At RNSMUN, members of the International Press will go beyond simply reporting events. They will be expected to question narratives, identify the significance behind diplomatic developments, and present the conference through compelling and responsible journalism. From breaking developments on the committee floor to capturing the atmosphere and defining moments of the conference, RNSMUN's IPC will challenge young journalists to observe critically, report accurately, and tell the story of diplomacy as it unfolds.
